

3Wire acquires Nass Parts and Service

Osseo, Minnesota, December 17, 2009 — 3Wire, a leading provider of service and supply chain management solutions supporting the beverage and foodservice industries, today announces the acquisition of Florida-based Nass Parts and Service, a leading service and OEM parts distributor with an outstanding customer service record to the U.S. commercial food equipment industry.

The acquisition of Nass Parts and Service represents a continued step in the execution of our strategy to not only build on our core parts offerings and expand our leadership position in total parts management, but to extend our distribution and service capabilities to the southeastern United States through a highly respected company.

Nass Parts and Service's management will remain in place and continue to fully operate their service center, training center and distribution center from their present Florida facility.
